

STOCKS.

Yesterday's market was anything but strong. But little interest was manifested in the north end stocks, and they were weak in tone and off in price. In the second session there was no change worthy of note. Best & Belcher was one dollar better, and some of the stocks showed a fractional advance while others were off slightly. At the close 65 cents was bid for North Bonanza. Altogether, the result of the session was a tame market.

PIANOS AND ORGANS.—At San Francisco prices, can be had on easy terms at the rooms of the Reform Club. Mr. Vann will give personal attention to customers, and explain the peculiarities of the various makes. All instruments fully guaranteed and shipped direct from Kohler & Chase, San Francisco. No agency, no profits to middlemen and no risk. Instruments sold on easy installments and old ones taken in exchange. The Decker piano, which is better than the Steinway or Webber, is just the thing for Christmas, and can be forwarded $150 cheaper than any piano in the market.

The best New Year present is a Steinway Piano, which can be bought on easy installments from F. J. Jessups of Virginia, or Mr. F. A. Hentchel of Carson. All pianos sold by either of the above parties come direct here from the New York factory. By buying of him one gets goods directly from the manufacturing house, and avoids the "drummers."

Now that the cold weather is upon us every man, woman and child in Carson will want a good, thick pair of gloves, not so much for style as for warmth. M. W. Hodkins, opposite the Arlington House, makes the best on the coast. His hand sowed buck gloves are a specialty.

DANCING SCHOOL.—Professor H. C. Schubert has opened a dancing school here and will teach the art of dancing the coming Winter. He has secured Corbett's Hall, over Harris Brothers, and has already secured the patronage of some of the leading families of Carson. His terms can be had on application.

TEN PLACES TO GO.—If you want a good square meal, go to Hunt's New Chop Stand, opposite the V. & T. R. R. depot, Calimberti's building, No. 76.

A man who enjoys good cigars, and is a judge of the article, will find it to his advantage to call at the Post Office Cigar Stand. None but the best are sold there.

THE CARRIER.

HIS TOILS AND PRIVATIONS—COLL OF THE WALK ONE MONTH OF THE YEAR—PEGASUS HIS SLAVE—HOW HE CORRALES HIS ADDRESS.

In all well established newspapers the New Year's address is the acknowledged prerogative of the carrier. How it came to be his right no one knows, but no one dares dispute it. During the entire year the carrier has lots of work, and combines the duties of a typographical apprentice with the drudgery of a "devil" and the disagreeable work of a handy man about the office. He has all the hard knocks and none of the glory of journalism.

THE CARRIER'S TOUGH LOT.

Few people know the miseries which a carrier is forced to undergo. He rises at 5 in the morning, and starts out on his rounds. No matter how cold the Winter, how pitiless the storms, how drenching the rains or how deep the snow, he must tramp all over the town, all the same, and deliver hundreds of papers. Some want the paper thrown on the front stoop, some insist on having it tucked under the door and some don't know exactly where they want it, but curse the carrier all the same no matter where he puts it. The horrible experiences he undergoes would in a year kill any ordinary man. Nothing but pluck, perseverance and wonderful constitution enables him to hold up and shake his untortured fist in the face of fate.

WHEN HE RULES THE ROOST.

About a month before New Year the carrier begins to assume an air of considerable importance. He walks up to the editor and remarks, "When in blazes are you going to start my address?" No editor would dare refuse, if he did the carrier, according to all established rules of a printing office, would have the perfect right to shoot him on the spot. This year the editor was a little slow on his poetry and the carrier got impatient. Each day fresh verses were submitted, but the carrier thought they were not coming fast enough. He was also quite critical, scanning the lines with one eye shut and checking off the metre on the ends of his fingers.

"Some of these lines are shaky, chuck in another syllable there or every body'll kick." The extra syllable was inserted.

"This second verse is a little cranky, too much dog."

By "dog" we ascertained that there was a surplus of sentiment and flowers. The "dog" was chucked out of the lines at once.

"Give the business men a deal. Harris Brothers, Bosko, Fox, McLaughlin, Morris & Co., Oleovich and the solid advertisers. Give the hotels a lift and make 'em rhyme with something."

We suggested that such prosaic ingredients spoiled the sentiment.

"Darn the sentiment, this is biz. I want to make some money. The business men don't chip up until they see some puffs rung in."

Thus we allowed him to harness Pegasus to suit his own sweet will, and wrote some strictly commercial verses. Next day we overheard him remark to a brother type that such poetry "made him tired." The editor was then discharged peremptorily.

A NEW POET CAPTURED.

One day he came in with a lank, hungry looking fellow, and stowed him away in the back shed under lock and key. He kept the poor devil imprisoned for five days and fed him sparingly while he made him write verses. It was root hog or die with him, practically illustrated. When he showed signs of weakening the carrier went and pounded him with a club. "Look inspired you whelp," he would shout. "Turn out the real stuff, (whack, whack) give us some specimen verses or I'll break you up (whack, whack). What am I keepin' you for you miserable rascalion? (dances on him). Now get to work or I'll massacre you." (Dusts the ceiling with him.) This course of low diet and high usage had its effect and the man wrote poetry by the yard.

A TYPOGRAPHICAL TYRANT.

Having gotten the poem written the carrier turned Pegasus out to grass with an injunction to "git." He then began to give his orders to the foreman.

"I want this to be set up in nonpareil, do ye mind; with a scrip-scroll border, antique facings, bronzed gothic letter, American eagle in the center, my name in ornamental corinthian type, and printed in four colors, do you hear! The" foreman set to work trembling in every limb, and toiled over his job for three days like a galley slave. When the matter was set up it needed about a stick full to fill out the page and the carrier sitting down grabbed a pen and dashed off a verse, remarking as he turned the last line: "Whoa Pegasus old boy; steady there!"

To-morrow he will deliver his address to every subscriber of the APPEAL, and the man or woman who does not contribute some of the coin of the realm will always be sorry for such negligence.

THE NEW YEAR'S EVE BALL.—The Carson Guard will give a ball at their Armory, at Moore & Parker's Hall, this evening. The committee of arrangements have been making preparations for this event for some time, and it is proposed to give a ball which the participants will not soon forget. This will also give those who attend an opportunity of witnessing the demise of the old year.

A COMPLICATED CASE.—A very lively case was tried in Justice Cary's court yesterday. Emma Hall was tried on a charge of petty larceny, preferred against her by Carrie Stein. It appeared in the trial that Miss Stein was the proprietress of a bagnio on Third street, in which the defendant was an inmate. One night Miss Hall left the scenes of gilded iniquity and took with her a portion of the wardrobe belonging to Miss Stein. She repaired to Virginia City next day and was subsequently overhauled by an officer on a charge of petty larceny.

A CURIOUS DEFENSE.

Miss Hall admitted leaving the house, and in her hurry she got some of the complaining witness's clothes mixed up with her's. Her accelerated departure was due solely to the fact that she had been subjected to certain indignities from the hands of frequenters of the house to which even a woman of the town could not be expected to submit. She explained the nature of the outrage to the court, but the details are of a character not accessible to the public through the medium of a family newspaper. The parties whom she accused of assisting in the indignity are young men well-known in the city. The jury stood ten to one for conviction, and the case will be re-tried to-day.

A FULL HOUSE ASSURED.

Justice Cary, finding that his court room is inadequate to accommodate the crowd which will be present at the trial to-day, has determined to move into the District Court room and begin the case at 10 o'clock this morning. The three young men against whom the woman makes such serious charges have been subpoenaed and will be put on the stand to-day. One of them left the city day before yesterday, anticipating a service from the Constable. If he should not voluntarily return he will be brought into court on a bench warrant.

PATTI'S CONCERT.—The Comstock people are not exactly pleased with Patti and her concert troupe. The lithograph pictures of the singer represent her as a superlative beauty of twenty-five. The APPEAL's musical man attended her concert on Monday night. Patti came hobbling on the stage and turned out to be a big fat woman of 47 (think of it) and with a wooden leg. The rough and tumble fight between the piano man and the Steinway grand gave the audience their money's worth. He opened on the instrument with his left, and got a good one in on the bass clef, following his advantage almost immediately with his right, he sent in half a dozen stingers on the upper octaves in a style that showed that he intended to force the fighting from the start. His next round was not characterized by rough work, and the pianist was evidently sparing for wind. Watching a favorable opening he secured a good lock, forced the instrument's head in chancery and mauled it good for twenty minutes. He then threw it over his head into the gallery and retired with hardly a scratch. A supe then came in and swept up the flats and semi-quavers in a dust pan and dumped them into an ash barrel in the rear of the dressing rooms. The piano will never again appear in public. Seriously, all nonsense laid aside, however, the concert was a very enjoyable one, and the entire company are artists of the first class. If there is a weak spot it is Patti herself, who is getting, as they say, somewhat passe.

THE TABLES TURNED.—The plan by which the gentlemen are to keep open house to-morrow and receive the ladies meets with general approval. The APPEAL has already received quite a list of names, embracing the leading citizens of Carson who propose to stand in in the new arrangement. This will save the ladies considerable trouble and expense and throw all the laborious part of the work on the gentlemen. The new plan also gives unqualified satisfaction to the ladies and they expect to have "jolly fun." The day's sport will doubtless lead to a Leap Year party at no distant day.

MISS SOLTER'S LECTURE.—Miss Solter's entertainment at the Sunday school-room of the Episcopal Church last evening was moderately attended by some of our leading citizens. The lecture, "An Evening in Copenhagen," was interspersed with some delightful Danish music, Miss Emma Friend ably presiding at the piano. The entertainment was as a whole even more pleasing than Miss Solter's former lectures and greatly delighted the audience. The APPEAL regrets, however, to state that the expenses more than ate up the receipts.

TURKEYS AT CLOSE RANGE.—Night before last some turkeys were stolen from a German lady who keeps a provision store near the Arlington House. Yesterday officer Duncan found the birds in the possession of Bill Hart and George Suydam. The two men were lodged in jail after considerable of a tussle between them and the officers. It seems a pity to steal turkeys when one can shoot at them on a 230-yard range at 25 cents a shot. The case will be tried before Justice Cary to-day at 2 o'clock.

ARRIVALS.—The following passengers arrived per southern stage yesterday morning: Miss R. Henderson, W. Jones, M. Gilderman, T. W. Buzzo, M. Tobey, J. Roberts, A. W. Buck, John P. Robinson, D. G. Fargo, J. A. Johnson, J. Kelly.

The APPEAL is indebted to John G. Fox for Eastern illustrated papers. "The Mistakes of Moses," Bob Ingersoll's last work, is for sale at Fox's.

DEPARTURES.—The following persons departed on the southern stage yesterday afternoon: James Slowers, W. C. Love, W. George, W. T. Hill, J. Wagner, A. C. Dunn, W. Welch, A. Mills, Jr., G. S. Rockwell, Mrs. L. Frost, D. B. Gleason, J. Ulrich.

WATCH NIGHT.—There will be services in the Methodist Church to-night, New Year's Eve, beginning at 9 and closing at 12 o'clock. A cordial invitation extended to all. The usual 7 o'clock prayer meeting is withdrawn.

Charles May writes the APPEAL from Aurora that it is snowing there like h—, and that there is twenty feet of the material on Sinc Barns' croquet ground, 11,933 $\frac{1}{2}$ feet above the sea.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Whitney arrived home from the East yesterday.

One "scissors" editor is quite enough for an evening newspaper.

Judge Hawley is about again.

THE WORD "SOZODONT."

Which has already become a household word, is derived from the Greek, and composed of two words, Sozo and Odontes. "Sozo," translated, means to preserve, and "Odontes" the teeth—"SOZODONT" a preserver of the teeth. And it is true to its name. It beautifies and preserves the teeth, hardens and invigorates the gums, and corrects all impurities of the breath. The odor of this pure preparation is so delightful that it is a luxury to apply it. It is as harmless as water. Sold by druggists and perfumers. d12-1m
